

2020 Bott Csonotos Furmint

Tokaj, Hungary

The wines of Tokaj are the product of over 1200 years of melting together different cultures, religions, and ethnicities over a truly unique combination of geology and climate. In a way, József and Judit Bodó, both originally from Csallóköz, an ethnic Hungarian region in Slovakia are perpetuating this tradition of cultural exchange. Following her love for wine Judit went to work for a producer in South Tirol who later hired her onto a project in Tokaj managing the affairs of a small artisan winery: Füleky. Heeding the dream of his wife to have their own winery in Tokaj, József took on the labor of actually looking for vineyards. Upon discovering Csonotos, Judit said, "he could not sleep at night." After the birth of their son, they focused solely on their own family winery with József in the vineyards and Judit in the cellar. In 2005 they bottled wine from just 1 ha, the first vintage of "Bott," an homage to Judit's maiden name. Today the couple tends about 5 ha spread among various sites mostly near the village of Erdőbénye. Wines are made exclusively from indigenous varieties. According to Judit, "When we succeed it brings joy to others that is generously given back to us. Since wine forms the quality of our lives, we like living this way." There is a maternal touch to the wines she makes, to compare them to children, they are as disciplined as they are loved. Despite making very little wine, Judit and József have made Bott one of Tokaj's most respected new producers, not just in Tokaj, but all of Hungary.

VINEYARDS

Teleki is located near the top of Tokaj Hill's Southern slope. Planted around 70 years ago and cultivated by hand, their plot only totals around 0.5 hectares. 80% is Furmint and the rest is Hárslevelű. The dominant soil is loess, but this surface layer has been heavily eroded, so roots must dig their way into volcanic tuffa in order to survive. Another key attribute is the low occurrence of Botrytis due to more wind at the more exposed higher elevation. Coupled with naturally high acidity and the lower yielding older vines, quality is ensured even in particularly difficult vintages.

WINE MAKING

As is common among some of the best vigneron in Tokaj, Judit and her family personally harvest the fruit ensuring the strictest of sorting. The newly built winery is still small and the equipment consists of relics like an antique wooden press and a medieval looking bladder press from the 60's. Despite looking less than ideal Judit contends that this equipment forces her to be especially attentive, which ultimately benefits her wines. Wines are fermented slowly in mostly used 220 liter oak barrels with native yeast over a period of 6-8 weeks.

This protracted fermentation enhances the elegance and texture of Bott wines. Wines remain in barrel between 7-10 months depending on the vineyard and vintage and are topped regularly. Depending on the vintage and character of a particular vineyard, wines may have residual sugar as Judit lets every barrel finish fermentation without intervention.

NOTES & PAIRINGS

This was their first commercial single vineyard back in 2005. We've been working with it since the 2009 vintage. That being said, 2020 was a real pain. A super rainy and cold autumn had sugar slowly accumulating to the point where for the very first time, they did one night on the skins to coax out all that they could. 30% was lost on the vine as well. The 2018 was nearly 15% alcohol, 2020 is barely 13%. Thankfully, Furmint has the remarkable ability to balance acidity and residual sugar. The rich brown forest soil augmented with slate and rhyolite also imparts a chalk-like texture coupled with dried fruit, honey, spice and a mineral backbone. One of the last families to own this site before the World Wars were the Zsedényi's. Despite being a prominent noble, Ede Zsedényi was apparently a little off, and used to dress like a homeless pauper around town. This shabby excellence is their inspiration for the best vintages from this site. It's also apt here.
